

Virtual Co-Working with The Current

Current Wellness, aka The Current, is now inviting wellness practitioners to be part of our professional online community. Wellness practitioners include (but are not limited to) mental health therapists, dietitians, personal trainers, wellness coaches, and yoga teachers.

Why Join The Current, Virtually?

Joining The Current as a practitioner-member provides multiple ways to reach new clients and adapt to telehealth and virtual services. We provide marketing and technology support; networking and referrals; and work with you to meet your goals, whether you're new to private practice or have an established practice that has moved online.

What does a Virtual Membership Include?

As a practitioner member, you have the freedom to manage your practice, while receiving the support that you need. Your practitioner membership includes:

- Business support for transitioning and maintaining your practice online
- Your bio and contact information listed on our website
- Features in blog posts, newsletters, and social media
- Networking, collaborative opportunities, and professional development with other practitioners
- Free online fitness and yoga classes

Virtual Co-Working with The Current

I want in! What does this cost?

The investment for the virtual practitioner membership is $150/month. A 3-month commitment is required (one-time payment or monthly auto-draft). Space is limited to ensure we maintain a professional community where you know your colleagues and can refer clients with confidence. All practitioners must adhere to our inclusive community values (listed on our website About page).

Next Steps and Physical Office Space:

Click here to fill out an interest form. We will be in touch as soon as possible.

We plan on opening our doors this August (pending construction). Virtual members will receive priority to physical office memberships when we open and we are happy to discuss these options with you.
